Dear Director,

I have a situation where the opposing attorney and I discussed stipulations and they agreed to type up what was agreed to.
The problem is that I did not see the document until the Judge walked into the hearing room. The opposing attorney at that moment as the judge sat down, handed me the documents and verbally verified they stated what was discussed previously so I signed them. I filed for an informal Hearing and I have just discovered the opposing attorney who did not honor their word. In my family and circles, your word is your life and you never compromise it.

I am representing a non-profit entity and the Judge is expecting me to provide the Findings of Facts and Laws by the middle of next month.
My question is does the OAH have Policies which allow this sort of thing normally or is there policies for investigation of fair and impartial?

I realize you probably cannot provide me counsel, but if there is anyone in the justice system that will stand for the full truth, all the facts, noble character, honoring your parents and carrying on their legacy, I am in need of finding fair and impartial and accessible and respectful forum for the truth.

Thank you,
Reed
